Course Pre-requisites, Co-requisites, and/or Other Restrictions

Course Description

Project Management – Practical approach is designed so as to introduce the basic concepts of project management emphasizing their applicability in regards to developing a specific set of skills among University students, which would prepare them and assist them in their ability to better function in any industry upon their graduation and also offering them an insight into the diversity of their potential careers.

The content of the course will be based on theoretical background (in the proportion necessary to understand the basics of project management), focusing mostly on introducing different case studies and practical examples after each session/topic.

Apart from the technical skills necessary for the effective writing, submitting and implementation of projects, the course will likewise focus on soft skills which students need to develop or further polish, such as communication, interpersonal skills, time management, decision making, creativity, team work, etc.

This course (in its essence a project itself) will start with the basics, such as foundations of project management, describing the value of creativity, idea and vision behind every project, and will exhibit some of the main drivers of project management. The introductory section will slowly move on to the people working in projects, introducing some of the most valuable skills, which the students will need to recognize by themselves, working out the assignments based on the practical examples. At the next level, some of the core concepts of projects will be introduced linking the skills and competencies already described and further expanding the area of the project requirements, leading to a successful project proposal. The final two sessions/topics will mostly be based on the practical approach and a number of case studies and examples, emphasizing the characteristics of projects’ unpredictabilities and a proper time and risk management benefits.

The main aim of this Course is to offer an insight into an overall applicability of project management principles in any industry or sphere of business, its effective development and sharpening of skills, necessary for people working in projects, but likewise a very effective tools for a successful operation of any business.

Student Learning Objectives/Outcomes

At the end of the course, students are expected to be able to:

1. Discern the meaning of individual and group performance.
2. Explain the role that individual variables (e.g., attitude, personality) and processes (e.g., perception, learning) play in the performance of employees.
3. Understand key human resource processes that support the performance of employees – staffing, selection, development, and compensation.
4. Develop a strategic view of human resource management.

Teaching Approach

Towards the learning objectives above, the course will combine conceptual lectures with a group of activities aimed at exploring the practical view of topics. While standard short-lectures will be part of our daily sessions, in-class (e.g., self-assessments) and out-of-class (e.g., experiential activities) exercises will assist in furthering our understanding of concepts. Also, a series of case studies, debates, and simulations will be utilized throughout the semester. Together, these activities seek to explore how topics transfer to business realities. Your participation is pivotal in making each one of these activities meaningful. The role of the instructor during activities is to facilitate rather than to impose an agenda. I expect an active participation from all students.

Required Textbooks and Materials

Suggested/Additional Course Materials

Assessment, Assignments & Academic Calendar

1) Participation & Attendance

I strongly believe that learning advances through active dialogue in class. Discussions and disagreements facilitate a better grasp of subject materials. Hence, participation plays a central role in this course and, as such, a significant percentage of your final grade hinges on participation (20% of your final grade). To maximize class contributions, you should read the pre-assigned chapters and case studies before the corresponding session. I evaluate your participation in every session based on the quantity (Do you regularly volunteer to participate?) and quality (Does your participation meaningfully contribute to discussion?) of your comments, primarily during discussions of case studies and articles. Although I do not expect an active participation in all sessions, it should be a priority for those of you who aspire to a grade of "1" in this class. I will ask for a self-assessment prior to judging your final participation grade.

The following behaviors describe an exceptional performance in participation:

a) Student misses no more than one session throughout the course.
b) Student shares his/her own class-related experiences during our discussions.
c) Comments are provocative and connect concepts with realities.
d) Student leads discussions and invites others to participate.

The following behaviors illustrate an unacceptable performance in participation:

a) Student misses more than 1 session.
b) Comments are disruptive or personally insult/attack others.
c) Student attends classes but fails to express his/her opinions throughout during the entire semester.
Normally, students who attend regularly and selectively voice their views in class will be graded with a 2. Your participation must be exceptional (as described above) to ensure a grade of 1.

Case studies offer significant opportunities to boost your participation score. They present situations that involve OB topics. The cases are listed in the calendar. You must read or watch the case studies before the corresponding session and come to class prepared to actively work on the case. In analyzing case studies, students will be provided about 10-15 minutes to individually draft your responses on a list of questions the instructor will present to the class. Then, working in groups, students will have the opportunity to share their views and, by consensus, find appropriate answers to the questions posted. You will provide an extra term of about 15 minutes to complete the group assignment.

An acceptable group-answer:

1) Incorporates the point of view of all group members.
2) Builds on the theories discussed in class.
3) Utilizes group-members work experiences into the analyses.
4) Provides provocative point of views on the issues.

Upon completion of the group assignment, an open debate will serve to synthesize your answers and learn from each other views. The instructor will create the groups at the beginning of each session. You may expect to have different group-mates every session.

2) Debates

A list of topics will be debated from opposite perspective in class (see below). Toward this goal, working in small teams, students will prepare to establish and defend one of the alternative perspectives by researching on articles, evidences, and editorials on the topic. Personal experiences are also valid information to support your position. This information should be brought to the debate and presented in a Power Point.

Each group will be allowed about 10 minutes to establish their case. Then, each side will have about 10 minutes to rebut and question the other side about their position. Then, the rest of classmates will be given opportunities to participate and ask questions. Following the debate, classmates will evaluate each presenter. You will be graded on how well you have established your position, how well you incorporate the researched information, and how well you defend your position. The rubric to evaluate these factors is exhibited below.
Debate Topics

1 Emotions & Attitudes (April 24th)

Team A: __________________________________________________________
Topic: Job satisfaction and organizational commitment are invisible competitive advantages for organizations

Team B: __________________________________________________________
Topic: Work attitudes (job satisfaction and commitment) are relatively irrelevant in building competitive advantage for organizations.

2 Motivation (April 25th)

Team A: __________________________________________________________
Topic: Money and incentives are key in boosting employees’ motivation.

Team B: __________________________________________________________
Topic: Money and incentives are ineffective in motivating people.

3 Leadership (April 26th)

Team A: __________________________________________________________
Topic: Everybody may become an effective leader.

Team B: __________________________________________________________
Topic: Leaders are borne. They cannot be systematically developed.

4 Group Theory (April 27th)

Team A: __________________________________________________________
Topic: Teamwork is more of a cliché than a real contribution to organizations.

Team B: __________________________________________________________
Topic: The real power of teams has been overlooked in organizations.

3) Quizzes

To test the retention of basic information, a series of three quizzes will be applied. These quizzes seek to assess the retention of essential concepts and theories addressed in each two sessions. Quizzes consist of 10-multiple choice items. The maximum time allowed to respond the quiz is 10 minutes.

In preparation for quizzes, I suggest reviewing the power points of the sessions to be assessed, articles assigned for these sessions, and the book chapter(s) that complement information. Again, keep in mind only essential concepts and theories will be included.
4) Exams

One test will be applied throughout the course. Tests are based on essay questions, which will assess your ability to incorporate class material into vivid case studies.

Course Description:

Developed markets have been the centre of business ideation and doing business with the world. It is in 1980s when newly industrialized economies were seen moving in the markets and creating their space, multinationals realized the potential in being in these new markets with a different strategy since the markets were moving from a sellers markets to demand market. 1995 onwards, multinationals were aggressive in pursuing emerging markets for doing business, expanding in factor arbitration and creating new centers of operations with strategic initiatives of innovation, cost cutting, market expansion and global integration. This ultra expansion gave birth to the new wave strategies and orientation of firms in establishing themselves in the emerging markets not only to do business for the specific market but also to make it a centre for other markets.

The developed market multinationals have moved with strategy in the new markets considering these markets static in their need and aspirations. The technological innovation and Globalization of 2 decades has changed the world and consumers are aspirational everywhere in the world. There is a new consumer segment with more purchasing power which has modified the definitions of markets and attributes of doing business.

As multinationals from developed markets are most aggressive to expand in search of new markets and new business, emerging markets look to grow, they are increasingly competing with established global players. In most of the scenarios, the core components of strong business strategy are same. These global firms must study the environment in which firm operates, develop the competitive advantage, build its growth space, and find models to sustain and expand in that new markets and business lines.

Some of the newer concepts like definition of multinational firms or emerging markets multinational firms, Institutional Voids, bottom of pyramid, reverse innovation, reverse branding, 4 As of marketing, sustainable business models, and low cost product and services for higher profits will put the firms’ strategies in different perspective and review and redesign the expansion and growth plan. Developing a business plan would help in understanding the minor nuances of the business and the transactions.

10. The Business Plan Project and Project Presentation

A. Business Plan Project Presentation in the class

B. The Business Plan Project: (Report Submission)
This project is about opening a new online company and making it a saleable idea. Your approach should be identify a new market, which means you are creating a market, and find out a way to offer solution. You are not expected to work for offering a product or a service, think in terms of the solution. It is more comprehensive, optimizes the resources for digitalization and covers higher degrees of value chain.

- Team should come up with an idea which is digital plan to launch a new business (there should be some novelty in the idea), means creating a new company.
- Thus, you are required to name the company, product/service/solution, brand etc.
- You should register a domain name and create a website using free website domains and servers and templates. Make a logo also.
- Make a business plan which includes the product/service/solution you want to launch, customers you target, plan of execution, your team working on the project, and a basic financial model, investment method and return model. Work as an entrepreneur and not like a manager.
- You are required to make a business plan within 15 pages. Present the website you have created. Give this link and details in your business plan.
- The project has two components:
  - Business Plan Presentation – before the class on Friday, each team will have 30 minutes time to present the idea, financials, and the sustainability of the company i.e. how is company going to earn, expenditure of company and profit.
  - Business Plan Report Submission – an elaborated version of the business plan in form of report. It should be within 15 pages.
  - First page of the report should give details of the project. Second page should give names, roll number and photo of the all members of the group.
  - Final report submission is within ONE week from course completion. Every submission later than this would reduced by 5 marks every day for evaluation.
Student Learning Objectives/ Outcomes:

1. Develop a comprehensive understanding of global economic environment and the shift of economic action from developed markets to emerging markets
2. Understanding the ways to new competition and the forces that shape the sector and industry in emerging markets and at global level
3. Understanding sustainable strategies in an unstable environment and from flexible (non-standard) approaches to manage long-term corporate advantage
4. Learn the newer concepts of reverse innovations, institutional voids, bottom of pyramid, reverse branding, 4A marketing mix and responsible business.
5. Learn to develop a business plan for the market at low investment scales and with help of new technologies.

Learning Outcomes:

1. Learning to assess global business environment and reasoning to finalise a destination for business
2. Build capabilities in strategy tools to assess the market and make a decision for organisation’s future course
3. Learn the Integration process of planning, assessment, implementation and measurement of the decision.

Teaching Approach:

This is case method course and motivates discussions in the classroom. Students are expected to work in a team and manage the group dynamics for optimum performance. Reading material finished before particular session will benefit the class discussion. The Business Plan project as mentioned above should start soonest to develop a good understanding of the product and entry logic for a company.

Required Textbooks and Materials:

• Competing in Emerging Markets: Cases and Readings” by Hemant Merchant, Routledge (Taylor & Francis Group), 2008.

Suggested/ Additional Course Materials:

• The Emerging Markets Century: How a New Breed of World-Class Companies is Overtaking the World” by Antoine van Agtmael, Simon & Schuster, 2007

Assessment, Assignments & Academic Calendar:

The course is evaluated from assignments/quiz, case studies, essay writing, exam and final project. This is designed to create higher degree of engaged learning by students which in turn should produce higher outputs of understanding. Following evaluation design is used for the course.

Group Case Discussion & submission (4 cases) – 10 marks each = 40
Group Project report submission and Presentation = 30 (15+15)
One written exam: 20
Attendance - 10

Project report will be evaluated in group however presentation will be evaluated individually.

Any supplementary evaluation of the course will be executed through a project report only under the guidelines of the syllabus i.e. project on an emerging market. Approval of the program office is necessary in this case.

Course Description

The course Supply Chain Management is a professional course for management, business administration and technical students. Its objective is to identify and explain logistics definitions, concepts and methods that are relevant for managing the supply chain. Additionally students learn how supply chains compete in terms of time, cost and quality. All logistic functions and processes would be explained in detail. Furthermore the course provides an overview about main aspects of supply chain networks, supply chain design, supply chain planning and supply chain execution, shows instruments and methods in supply chain management, process evaluation, information analysis and how to optimize processes in supply chains. An additional focus is the application of lean methods and techniques in a supply chain.

Instructor Bio

Hildegard Liebl was born in Vienna, Austria. She received her Master’s in Business Administration (specialisation: Marketing and HR) at the Vienna University of Business Administration and Economics (WU Wien) after studying at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio. From 93 to 01 she worked as a product/brand manager for Unilever, concentrating on all kinds of marketing issues for Frozen Food and margarine business. During this time she managed to launch 30 new products within the Austrian retail trade with strong focus on the needs and demands of the Austrian consumer. From 01 to 03 she was Marketing Manager and Business Unit Manager at the biggest frozen food producer in Austria (Austria Frost). She built up a marketing department and started business in CEE, mainly in Czech, Hungary and Slovenia. Between 03 and 05 she was Marketing Manager for Danone Austria, further developing strong brands like Actimel. Hildegard Liebl is currently a senior lecturer at the Joanneum University of Applied Sciences (FH Joanneum) in Graz, teaching courses in Marketing. In addition, Hildegard Liebl is working as a freelance executive coach (she received an additional diploma education in business coaching) and marketing consultant.
Course Pre-requisites, Co-requisites, and/or Other Restrictions

Students ideally have some basic knowledge of marketing management.

Course Description

Global marketing is marketing’s response to the fact that markets around the world sometimes show increasingly similar, yet sometimes differing characteristics and therefore need to be targeted in a globalized or localized way. The marketing activities of the modern company have become increasingly internationalized. Marketing across national borders is one of the most challenging fields in business today.

In this course, we will discuss the scope and challenge of international marketing and draw the distinction between international, global and multinational marketing. We will deal with the reasons for growing globalization of markets as well as the cultural environment of global markets. In a next step, we will learn how to assess global market opportunities, what needs to be considered when conducting marketing research and how to enter new foreign markets. We will discuss international market segmentation and targeting, environmental and competitive analysis and common pitfalls in global marketing. In a next step, we will adapt the basic 4 Marketing Mix elements to the international marketplace.

The primary teaching method will be lectures, group discussion and group problem-solving. 4 assignments will stimulate your thinking and understanding. We will leverage the different cultural backgrounds of the participants and learn from each other through class discussion.

By the end of this course students will appreciate how the international marketing environment differs from their domestic environments and understand the complexity of the international marketplace as well as be familiar with current issues in international marketing.
